THIRTEEN GOATS IN POLICE COURT

That is, They Were Figuratively, Their Owner Appearing to Speak for Them.

CALL COCAINE CASE TO-DAY

Justice Crutchfield Will Ascertain to What Extent "Dope" is Being Sold.

While John Minson was digging a grave a few days ago his thirteen goats butted out of the enclosure in Henrico county, and bumped into the city limits of the city of Richmond.

Officer Hatten Amos, to whom many complaints had been registered against the "Billiams" belonging to the aforesaid Minson, spied the animals of head-on collision prohibitions, and reported the owner and likewise summoned him to court.

Hence the appearance of Minson before the bench behind which reposes, disposes, imposes, composes, supposes and deposes the One John.

It came about yesterday morning, John Minson was there, and so was Page Johnson, entangled in the meshes of the law. Minson had thirteen goats and Johnson had one goat.

"What percentage of the costs, if the fine were the same would the man with the one goat have to pay?" queried Mr. Robbins, the man who keeps the key that unlocks the cage in the northwest side of the basement.

"The percentage is this: John Minson will pay me $3 and this other nigger here, whose economy, as given to me, is Page Johnson, will only have to contribute one smolmon," answered the One John as he turned a leaf in the thirteenth volume of the Crutchfield code.

"I was des out diggin' or grave when mah goats dey runs 'round loose like an' resposse on Richmond city, you see?" got in edgewise Minson.

"Hereafter you will be employed in turning over terra firma if you don't keep those 'willams' of yours in Henrico county," expostulated Crutchfield, as Sergeant Talley-counted the money for the two fines.

"Cocaine Case To-day." B. Macchia, charged with selling cocaine, will be tried this morning. His case was called yesterday morning, but was continued on account of the absence of witnesses. Macchia said that he had a cocaine fiend, but denied that he had ever sold any of the drug.

John Fenton, for being a vagrant, was dismissed, and William French, who said he hailed from Pennsylvania and had a wife and two small children to care for here, was allowed to go home. He was with much misgiving that the One John allowed him to return to the bosom of his family.

James Harris, a negro, said that five years ago Justice Crutchfield told him

"WOULD DO NO HARM" To Quit Coffee, the Doctor Said.

An Oak Park lady writes of her coffee experiment: "I am of middle age and had been a coffee drinker all my life up to five years ago, when my physical condition became so serious and medicines did so little good that I began to suspect that coffee was doing me harm."

"I had gradually become very nervous, my heart grew subject to distressing palpitations, and my mental faculties had got into dull torpid condition. With it all came bodily weakness that made it almost impossible to get around."

"My physician examined me and said my heart was affected. I asked him if coffee was injurious to me, and he replied that 'would do no harm' to stop drinking it for a while. And so I quit."

"But I felt very much the need of a hot beverage, and in that way came to the Postum Food Coffee, which I had seen advertised. I tried it prepared strictly according to the directions, and the result was a delicious, clear drink, which I found most refreshing and satisfying, with a flavor similar to that of the finest coffee."

"I have used it as my sole table drink ever since. Soon after I began to drink it my nerves steadied down to normal, the heart trouble ceased to annoy me, my head has been clearer, my mentality more active and efficient during these five years than ever before in my life."

"My son-in-law was a victim of dyspepsia, until I induced him to stop drinking the old kind and begin the use of Postum Food Coffee. His digestion rapidly improved until it became perfect, and as he still uses Postum, it has remained good." Name given by Postum Co., Health Creek, Mich.

FARMERS NEED WORKMEN BADLY

Commissioner Koiner Receives Many Letters From Persons On Scarcity of Labor.

WOULD ADVERTISE THE STATE

Effort Will Be Made to Let Outside World Know Virginia's Advantages.

Conditions prevailing throughout the State, as a result of scarcity of labor, now partially paralyzing activity on Virginia farms are eloquently set forth in letters from every section, daily pouring into the office of the Commissioner of Agriculture.

Since public attention was called to the plans projected by Mr. Koiner and the State board, for bringing desirable foreign labor to Virginia, expressions of approval and applications for the expected hands have come in a volume; that speaks powerfully for the great needs of the farmers. Every county has sent up a cry for men. Several applicants offer homes and small farms to white laborers who will settle permanently and work upon the plantations. Hundreds are willing to engage at once from one to five men. Several of the writers declare that they have been compelled to reduce the size of their crops materially, because they had nobody to work them; others state that they planted large crops, great portions of which went to waste from lack of attention or ability to gather and market the yields. The effect of this condition upon the commerce of the State, is apparent at a glance. A prominent member of the State Board of Agriculture itself, writes that he has to feed his own stock and milk his own cows, while his wife does the cooking for the establishments. There are no servants to be procured for love or money.

Need Laborers Badly.

"The farmers of Virginia," said Mr. Koiner yesterday, "need laborers more than they need money. Twenty thousand farm laborers could find employment in Virginia counties to-day."

The scarcity of farm hands is caused by the exodus of negroes to the North. Thoroughgoing conditions, and steps will be taken in this present Legislature to provide funds for an extensive immigration movement. Mr. Koiner and Mr. Beverley, of Essex, a member of the board, are now arranging in the State Assembly. The draft of this bill will be submitted to the State Board of Agriculture, for its approval at a meeting to be held in this city next Tuesday.

It is the purpose of the board to ask and to have appropriation of $10,000, and to be used in advertising the advantages of the State to home-seekers and laborers in the west of America and for the establishment of an agency system in Europe. Agents will be sent to England and Scotland and several countries, and these agents will turn the immigration to Virginia, making careful selection of the families or individuals sent here. The scheme is vast and vitally important. It has not yet been made public in all its details.

Some concern has been manifested by certain newspapers and individuals, who appear alarmed, that the State be flooded with the "riff-raff" of Europe. This is a huge error, for by insufficient knowledge of the conditions. There is no lack of the undesirable immigrants. They are always ready to come, and the United States government maintains a system to keep them out. No agency would be necessary to bring this class of people here. The only possible service the agency can perform is to select wisely who shall be assisted in coming, and it is scarcely reasonable to suppose that they will choose the "riff-raff" purposely.

A letter was received yesterday from a man in Florida, who wants to be an agent. There have been several applications of this sort, and, of course, no attention can be given to them at this time. It is, however, a good thing that are also coming to Mr. Koiner from every section of the State. While this is very gratifying to the Commissioner, these letters would serve a better purpose if directed to the legislators, whose consent to the appropriation will be needed later on.

LECTURES AT COLLEGE.

Interesting Events of Near Future Forecasted.

The first week of the new year has been full of encouragement for Richmond College. Practically all the old students are returned and many new ones have matriculated. At the first faculty meeting of the year, President Boatwright was able to assure the members of the faculty of many indications of the prospects for the winter and spring terms. It is commonly remarked that not for years have the students and all connected with the college manifested greater zeal for all that goes to make up the best college life, whether it be students or the other student activities.

Many things of interest are scheduled for the winter and spring terms which will serve both to instruct and to entertain. First there are to be the faculty lectures, of which President Boatwright is to deliver the first one January 25th. His subject is: "The Place of the Fine Arts in a College Course." This is a subject of interest to all people who are concerned with the subject of education at all or with the advancement of interest in art. This lecture will be given in the Thomas Museum Hall above the library and the statuary in the hall will serve in part to give illustration to the Pain Wears Out the Nerves.

Do you realize that pain is weakening, and exhausts your vitality? Don't you remember how completely worn out you felt after that last attack of headache, neuralgia, backache, periodical or other spell of suffering? Nearly every case of inflammation, apoplexy, paralysis, epilepsy and insanity is directly due to the weakening influence of pain upon the brain nerves? For this reason every one who suffers from pain of any kind should not fail to get relief as quickly as possible.

You can do this by taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills—others do.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for years, and can say they have never failed. I always keep them in the house, in fact I had rather be without sugar than the Pills. I never feel better than when I have taken them. I have had some severe attacks of headache, neuralgia, backache, periodical or other spell of suffering, but after a short time the effect would wear off. It is five years now I have been taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and the results are as good as at first."

MRS. W. H. MARSHALL, Superior, Mo.
Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that they will relieve your pain. If it fails, he will return your money. 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.

Lecture. The other lectures by members of the faculty occurring at intervals of one week will be of unusual interest.

The students look forward, too, to a morning lecture to be given in the morning hours, taking the place of recitations to be delivered by Virginians who are eminent in their professions. They will deal with some of various callings in life, such as medicine, law, journalism, teaching, the ministry, banking and farming. These papers will prove an invaluable document to young men considering the choice of life-calling. The speakers will be announced later.

Another treat in store for the friends of the college is the course of lectures to be given in the spring by Dr. Walter Page, of New York, editor of the World's Work. Dr. Page is one of America's most prominent publicists and thinkers. He will have something to say, and he will say it strikingly.

The rearranging of the tax books necessary to meet these changed conditions entails a lot of work on the officers of the commission.
